A Perilous Adventure

[illegible] STRUGGLE WITH THE [illegible] FIEND

[From the Yamhill Reporter]

Mr William Hill living about five miles south of this place gave an account of an adventure he had this week, which he thinks more pleasant to speak of now than it was to realize at the time of its occurrence. On Monday morning in company with his wife and family he started berrying, striking in the direction of Grand Ronde reservation, and going on beyond that place about four miles he left his wagon and took to the mountains on horseback. During the forenoon he discovered that the mountains were on fire in each direction—east and west—and were approaching him from both ways very rapidly. Seeing that egress was impossible, the thought that struck Mr Hill was to hunt water and from an elevation he discovered a belt of green timber following down the ravine, and was confident there must be a stream there. Starting with his wife and four children he reached the location and found he was right in his calculation. There he found a small creek, large enough, however, to save them from an awful death, for in the creek he kept his wife and children nearly two days and night, while he fought the fire with determination, resorting to the water himself very frequently to keep his clothes wet. On came the two armies of flame until their hot breath lapped across the creek—above and below them but sparing them fortunately a little place on account of green vegetation which grew on one side of the creek—but above their heads was a perfect cloud of fire and smoke, and the falling trees, the dropping fire brands, the roar of the flames, and the cries of his wife and children, Mr Hill says give him an experience which he hopes never to have again. On Tuesday evening during a lull in the wind he concluded that he would take the desperate chances of going through the fire for in fact it was his only chance for life. Accordingly he started, and after a most perilous journey of four miles among falling and fallen trees alive with fire and almost suffocating with smoke they succeeded in reaching the wagon. Near here Mr Hill says, was another fire burning, one of the most destructive he had witnessed—sweeping toward them for a time, and promising no possible escape from a horrible death. But, when within a short distance, from some cause it changed its course, and again they were given a little space for safety while the flames were sweeping by. Mr Hill's folks were the only white people who were in the mountains between the two fires. There were several Indians with them. Several teams started in but were turned back by the fire. One load of women and children, with a man driving, became panic stricken and throwing away everything they had—berries shawls provisions etc—they went back and reported at the Reservation that Mr Hill's family were certainly burned up. Mr Hill says he heard a great deal of firing away to the west and thinks there must have been quite a number of others in this direction. The persons who started these fires are partially known. They will be dealt with if possible as they should be

REVERDY JOHNSON AND THE KU KLUX OUTRAGES —Reverdy Johnson is not a Republican but he was selected as one of the counsel in the prosecution of the Ku Klux outrages. In his address to the jury he said

I have listened with unmixed horror to some of the testimony which has been brought you. The outrages proved are shocking to humanity they admit of neither excuse or justification they violate every obligation which law and nature imposes upon men, they show that the parties engaged were brutes, insensible to the obligations of humanity and religion. The day will come however if it has not already arrived when they will deeply lament it. Even if justice shall not overtake them there is one tribunal from which there is no hope. It is their own judgments—that tribunal—which sits in the breast of every living man—that small still voice that thrills through the heart—the soul of the mind and as it speaks gives happiness or torture—the voice of conscience the voice of God. If it has not already spoken to them in tones which have startled them to the enormity of their conduct I trust in the mercy of Heaven that the voice will speak before they shall be called above to account for the transactions of this world. That it will so speak as to make them penitent and that trusting in the dispensations of Heaven whose justice is dispensed with mercy when they shall be brought before the bar of their great tribunal to speak—that incomprehensible tribunal—there will be found in the fact of their penitence or in their previous lives some grounds upon which God may say pardon

As Mr Johnson is a supporter of Mr Greeley he cannot be called a partial witness

A M George, 103 years old committed suicide at Rockford Ill, a few days ago. He had probably despaired of ever dying the natural way

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN]

EASTERN STATES

How We Escaped from a Comet Yesterday

CHICAGO August 12 —The St Petersburg Times of a recent date publishes the result of the joint observations by the Swiss astronomer Plantamour and the Russian Professor Bockh, of a comet which appears to have been observed by them separately but nearly simultaneously by one at Geneva and the other at St Petersburg. Plantamour went to St Petersburg to join Bockh in observation. The [illegible] says Plantamour was right when he asserted that the orbit of his comet crossed the earth's in such a way as to necessitate a collision of the two bodies. Bockh and Plantamour state that there is no reason to disbelieve that the orbit of the comet is strictly a parabola and that in passing on towards the sun the new and terrible visitor to solar system will smite the earth on August 12th, with what result, however it is impossible to foretell. When first observed the comet was far beyond the most distinct point reached by Neptune. Subsequent observations show it moving with a velocity of about nineteen miles a second, about the rate the earth moves in its orbit, and that early in August it will be visible to the naked eye as a small patch of light twelve and a half degrees west of the Polar star. It will become more distinctly visible and the tail be seen divided into three parts, thenceforward until the collision takes place. It will increase in apparent size and splendor until its light shall fill the entire heavens rendering the stars, moon and even the sun invisible. As to the exact moment of contact there is a disagreement between results arrived at by astronomers, Bockh giving it August 12, at twenty minutes to 4 P M, Greenwich time while Plantamour places it at half past six P M, a difference of two hours and fifty minutes

The Geneva Conference.

NEW YORK, August 12 —A special from Geneva says the Tribunal of Arbitration required argument on these points. First, due diligence as to principles of law; second, what was the value of the commission held by Confederate cruisers and how far did they entail responsibility upon England when they entered her ports; third, how far did coaling of cruisers in English ports make England responsible for these acts. These points have been elaborately argued by Roundell, Palmer, and Messrs Evarts, Cushing and Waite. The fact of the Tribunal's analysis of the cases as is seen in these points is a strongly favorable indication

Oakland Moving

OAKLAND Ogn, August 12 —The transactions in real estate continue with unabated activity. The past week has settled the question of strife between the old and new towns of Oakland, nearly all the business men of the old having purchased lots in the new town and are waiting for mills to cut and railroad to haul lumber for the purpose of building. Abraham Bros have already torn down their warehouse, which is now being raised in the new town. Wagon, blacksmith shops and saloons are about all to be removed to this place as soon as carpenters can do it. A great many of our wealthy farmers have bought lots with the intention of building. The prospects for the new place are flattering indeed

GRANT—PLEASONTON—SCHURZ —The Newark Advertiser gives the following description of a little scene

Grant [illegible] to Pleasonton—What is the matter with Schurz? I am willing to treat him fairly and give him all the consideration his Senatorship should command

Pleasonton to Schurz—I have had an interview with the President. If you will support him in the San Domingo business you can have the Missouri patronage and pretty much all the foreign appointments

By letter—Schurz to Pleasonton—How did I understand you? Now that you have been kicked out of office what is your recollection of the infamous bribe?

Pleasonton to Schurz—Not in the habit of having any question raised about my word. The President when he asked your support, must have meant to pay for it. That is the rule among business men. I understood that you were to have full swing in patronage

Schurz to the People—You see I didn't do it. I am spotless, all clad in white array

That is all we can gather out of the correspondence between Pleasonton and Schurz

A RINGING APPEAL

ADDRESS TO DEMOCRATS—SPIRIT [illegible] THE LOUISVILLE CONVENTION

We make the following extracts from the call issued a few days ago by the Democratic Executive Committee for the Convention at Louisville

Can Democrats who have boasted that they support 'principles not men' agree to falsify their past life by clasping hands with the worst men in the Radical party, Sumner Schurz Trumbull Fenton and the thousand other leaders who rally around Greeley and would control his administration if his election can be secured? Who are the men that thus seek for the highest honors and emoluments in the country and who have extended their support to trading politicians of the Tammany school by a promise of dividing the spoils? Without exception they are the bigots whose bitterness has been evinced for the past twenty years in the defamation of their opponents men who have uttered the most unchristian most ferocious, most villainous sentiments about and against the Southern people—women and children, as well as the men who procured the war—and who have done most to develop and pass that legislation since the war which true Democrats denounce as subversive of liberty and against the spirit of our institutions, men who have riveted the South in chains and burdened it with burdensome debts, the proceeds of which have gone into the pockets of a select few, who have fattened upon the misfortunes of the people and who turn to a new ring and Tammany alliance in order still further to enrich themselves. Warmouth, who has increased the debt of Louisiana $45,000,000 in three years, whose fraudulent acts and the villainies of State legislation have been denounced in Democratic papers from Maine to Texas, is the leader, par excellence, of the chivalry of the South. His influence at Cincinnati, the sixteen votes of his delegation, nominated Greeley. Yet we are coolly informed that the people have done it with enthusiasm. Warmouth can, by fraud, elect who he chooses, just as the Mayor of New York has in deciding the vote and in the appointing of all election officers

The committee declare the purpose is to carry the election of thieves in other States by practical fraud, and they protest against it as no better a method of securing the liberty of the people than the use of partisan laws originated by prominent leaders of Greeley's party to be enforced by the bayonets of the present administration. They declare the South cannot clasp hands with those who have wronged them from the termination of the war, that Northern Democrats cannot but condemn the offenses of men like Pease of Texas, and Rice of Arkansas or load with honors Gratz Brown, who in 1863 outdid Herod for disfranchisement and position, and recanted only when office was to be obtained. They notice other leaders of the Greeley movement—Blair who came into the party to destroy it, and nobly has fulfilled his mission; Schurz, who is the loudest of all and would sweep the South with a besom of destruction, who viewed the election of a Democrat as the worst calamity to befall the country only six months ago, McNiel, the butcher of unarmed prisoners, in Kentucky, Burbridge, the most detested of all its citizens, in Georgia, Brown, who, as an official during our war and since, under the corrupt administration of Bullock, which plundered the State of millions, has been and is accused of using his official station for private gain. Against a union with such men and against their use of the Democratic name the committee protest and declare their belief that the people will condemn the corrupt bargain. The only precedent, they say, in history for the impudent selection of a deserter for a Commander-in-Chief is that of Coriolanus, and for the Democrats the comparison is unfortunate. Coriolanus betrayed his army and saved Rome when she was prostrate at his feet. So Greeley, with Sumner and other champions of negro social equality, re indorsed with emphasis, since his nomination, with truculent advisers of centralization and tyrannical oppression of these advisers—uncompromising enemies to that Constitution which to them is a 'league with hell and a covenant with death,' are ready to do anything for power and place, and will unscrupulously betray their own followers, if necessary for their own advancement. Even in the hour of victory they declare the Democratic party is the party of the future and that its honesty of purpose will attract the support of the masses, and its future be crowned with success

Horace Greeley as an Editor

[From the Chicago Post]

The notorious fact is however, that Horace Greeley is probably the very worst editor in America who has ever occupied a commanding position—the most bungling and the most inefficient. As a political writer he is vigorous, virile, powerful, uniting in rare and effective combinations wit, statistics, [illegible], invective and illustration, but as a journalist he has hardly an inferior among the eminent writers of the country. Every newspaper he has ever controlled and conducted has failed witness the Log Cabin and the New Yorker. Even the Tribune lost money steadily under Greeley & McElrath. McElrath was a good business man, and showed his capacity for succeeding in other kinds of business, but the Tribune became bankrupt because Greeley undertook to edit it. No financial genius could float him

Not till Greeley's friends convinced him that he had no executive ability, and induced him to put the paper wholly into the hands of a managing editor did it begin to achieve success as a financial venture. Greeley was thrust into a little dark dirty room at the back of the building—a sort of unsavory cupboard—and there he stayed, never going into the editorial room, or 'meddling with his own business' in any way, but industriously driving his fluent quill from sunrise till ten at night. His articles were pruned, amended, suspended or suppressed by the managing editor, Dana. Then the Tribune stock rose above par, and the paper became a power in the land. Dana Gray Young and Reid, as editors and Sinclair as financial manager—these are the men who have made the Tribune—partly with the help of Horace Greeley's colossal abilities, partly in spite of Horace Greeley's enormous vagaries

In a court a man who was called upon to appear as a witness could not be found. On the Judge asking where he was, an elderly gentleman rose up and with much emphasis said 'Your Honor, he's gone.' "Gone, gone,' said the Judge, 'where has he gone?" "That I cannot inform you" replied the communicative gentleman "but he's dead." This is considered the most guarded answer on record

The population of Boston is about one fourth that of New York, but the valuation of her property is fully one half that of the latter city

TUESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 13, 1872.

The Tide Rising.

When the campaign opened the noisy followers of Greeley boasted that they were going to have it all their own way. They set out to carry the day with drums, timbrels, gongs and tom-toms. Every blatant orator found a tongue, and noise and blather filled the hour. But they who supposed this to be a sign that the Greeley movement was a revolution, foolishly deceived themselves. Because some grasshoppers under the fern, to borrow Burke's illustration, make a field ring with their importunate chink, while the great cattle reposing under the oak chew the cud and are silent, we are not to suppose that the noisy insects are the only occupants of the field. Already there are evidences that the Greeley movement has touched the highest point of its greatness, and hastes to its setting

These evidences appear in multiplied ways. It cannot escape any one's notice that the Republicans, though latest in the field, are already working with most enthusiasm and vigor. They are holding more meetings and vastly larger ones than their opponents. Reports of these meetings show that the popular drift is all toward Grant and Wilson. There is no mistaking either the direction or the force of the current. Democrats are unusually languid and passive. They are doing little or nothing. The Greeley campaign is in the hands of the "Liberal" auxiliaries who have usurped the leadership. Democratic leaders of other times either sulk in their tents or come out for Grant. Meanwhile the movement for a straight Democratic Convention at Louisville gains strength. That it will be a very considerable gathering cannot be doubted. It promises to represent a vast multitude of Democrats who will not vote for Greeley, and to furnish them an organized method for independent political action.

The result of the North Carolina election also has its influence. It assures to Grant at the very outset six or eight Southern States which were counted with all certainty for Greeley, and which his nomination was intended to secure to the Democratic party. As time wears on the impossibility of getting the whole Democratic vote for Greeley becomes more manifest, and the observation made at the commencement of the campaign, that he would not get Republican votes enough to counterbalance the loss of Democrats, is being rapidly verified.

Necessity as a Virtue.

Will the Democratic papers never get done talking about the "unparalleled sacrifice" their party has made in accepting Greeley? All the Democratic organs of Oregon are still at it. We are asked to admire the magnanimity, the virtue, of the party which has nominated its life-long and most bigoted opponent. We are informed that no other party ever had the good of the country so much at heart as to do such a thing, and that for lofty disinterestedness and pure patriotism the Democracy are entitled easily to a first premium over all competitors.

Now we are not able to admire this as heartily as might be desired; in fact we can't admire it more than our Democratic friends themselves do, who boast of their satisfaction to conceal their disgust. Their acceptance of Greeley was not voluntary. It was done under dire necessity, and because there was no help for it. It would have been avoided, if any alternative had been possible. They saw no possibility of electing a straight candidate, and in taking Greeley they yielded to bitter constraint and unwelcome compulsion. Lee's forces when they surrendered at Appomattox deserved no more credit for magnanimity and disinterestedness than Democrats now deserve for their acceptance of Greeley. Like Micawber when locked up for debt, they are constrained by "circumstances over which they have no control."

They could, indeed, have made a fight on the old ground, but that would have been hopeless from the beginning. Believing that Greeley would capture the colored vote and bring it into alliance with the Democracy, they accepted him as a last desperate expedient for the obtainment of power. And now they are all trying to show that there is no virtue like necessity.

While Horace Greeley, editor of the New York Tribune, was engaged in truck and dicker with the Democrats, he was sending round a circular soliciting Republican aid to increase the circulation of his paper for the following reasons:

> If you think, with us, that an increased circulation of the Tribune will conduce to the election of the Republican candidate for President, we shall be glad to have you comply with our request at an early day.

Was this honest? Intriguing in private for the Democratic nomination, and professing to the public that he would support the Republican candidate, and that the Tribune would be faithful to the party with which it had always stood. In this way thousands were deceived into subscribing for the Tribune. Was it honest?

Maine usually goes Republican by ten or twelve thousand majority, and in Presidential years by eighteen or twenty thousand. The Greeley influence is nothing in Maine, or so nearly nothing that it is not counted as a factor in the present contest. The State is deemed certain for Grant by twenty thousand majority. The State election, however, takes place on the 9th September, when there will be a contest in which local matters are a chief feature. Last winter the Legislature passed a "ramrod liquor law," and the Governor who approved it is a candidate for re-election. He encounters considerable opposition on this ground, but his election is assured by over ten thousand majority.

An old wood cut worked over, but making a very good looking picture, is made to do duty as Jasper Johnson's portrait in Frank Leslie's. A stunning biography accompanies the "portrait," from which we gather that Jasper is the life and soul of the "Liberal" movement at the East, and that he carries almost the whole burden of it upon "Atlantean shoulders fit to bear the weight of mightiest monarchies."

On the night of the election in North Carolina the New York Times' correspondent telegraphed that the claims of the Democrats that they had carried the State were silly and absurd. They were pretending to give returns from counties which could not possibly be heard from for several days. This correspondent was certain from the first that the State had gone Republican.

On Friday evening next there is to be a meeting of German Republicans of San Francisco, and a demonstration in favor of Grant and Wilson. Up to last Wednesday 1,053 Germans had signed the call, and the number was still increasing. It is already demonstrated that the bulk of German voters in San Francisco will support Grant and Wilson.

What Horace Greeley Knows.

A VERY UGLY PASSAGE OF HISTORY RECALLED—HOW MR. LINCOLN WAS BETRAYED.

[From Mr Conkling's New York Speech.]

Mr. Greeley, early in Mr. Lincoln's administration, became his enemy. This Mr. Lincoln knew, and was ever on his guard. This is noticeable in the Niagara peace affair. Mr. Greeley had been for secession when secession might have been averted; he had been for battle when the time had not come; he had been in turn for war and peace when each was impossible, and early in 1864, when the rebellion was about to collapse, and when everything depended on keeping the North erect with united and undaunted front, Mr. Greeley fell into a swoon of despondency and blamed our authorities for not making peace.

From the beginning of the war Canada had been the refuge of the spies, detectives and hangers-on of the rebellion. On the 5th of July, 1864, one W. Cornell Jewett, an irresponsible and half-insane adventurer, wrote Mr. Greeley a letter, saying that George N. Sanders wanted to come to Niagara Falls and hold a private interview with those authorized to make peace. Mr. Greeley, the day after he received the letter, wrote to Mr. Lincoln. His letter shows him full of the subject and completely persuaded that he had received a great and genuine revelation. He enclosed ready made, his "plan of adjustment." He was going to close up the whole rebellion by paying $400,000,000 to "loyal and secession alike" for slaves, and by several things, closing his plan with these words: "It may save us from a northern insurrection." In this letter he said: "A wide-spread conviction that the Government and its prominent supporters are not anxious for peace, and do not improve proffered opportunities to achieve it, is doing great harm now, and is morally certain, unless removed, to do far greater in the approaching elections." He also put in his letter exaggerated statements of the extremity to which the country had come, and appealed to Mr. Lincoln to enter into the negotiation.

Mr. Lincoln saw through the whole thing at a glance, he saw that Mr. Greeley had been gulled, and he saw that he must humor him or rouse his ire. Accordingly, he wrote to him as follows: "If you find any person anywhere, professing to have any proposition of Jefferson Davis, in writing, for peace,' embracing the restoration of the Union and the abandonment of slavery, whatever else it embraces, say to him he may come to me with you," etc. Mr. Greeley replied, caviling with the President's letter, saying that they would not show their credentials, etc., and using these words: "Green as I may be, I am not quite so verdant as to imagine anything of the sort,"

Receiving no answer from the President, three days afterwards, July 13, he wrote: "I have now information on which I can rely, that two persons, duly commissioned and empowered to negotiate for peace, are at this moment not far from Niagara Falls," etc. In this letter he appeals to Mr. Lincoln "to act in the premises, and act so promptly that a good influence may even yet be exerted in the North Carolina election next month."

Mr. Lincoln replied: "I am disappointed that you have not already reached here with those Commissioners. If they would consent to come on being shown my letter to you of the 9th instant, show that and this to them, and if they will come on the terms stated in the former, bring them. I not only intend a severe effort for peace, but I intend that you shall be a personal witness that it is made."

Mr. Greeley applied for "safe conduct" for four persons, and this being granted, he set sail on his mission, never suspecting he was the victim of a fraud, and not seeing how Mr. Lincoln regarded it.

LINCOLN BETRAYED.

Reaching Niagara, he instantly put himself into communication with Sanders, Thompson & Co., who at once informed him that they had no authority whatever to make peace, or to talk about it, but they were pleased that the United States had at last come forward proposing terms, and they graciously offered Mr. Greeley, if the President would protect them, to go through the United States down to Richmond, and see what the rebels would do about it. Mr. Greeley, in place of denouncing the cheat and repelling the impertinence, and clearing the President by showing the two letters which he had been instructed to show, went into correspondence with these brazen impostors. Learning what was going on, Mr. Lincoln dispatched a confidential messenger, post haste, with a document dated July 18, 1864, signed by himself, and addressed "To whom it may concern." This document stated that authorized propositions of peace would be fairly met, provided "the integrity of the whole Union and the abandonment of slavery" was enforced. The messenger, by order of the President, hastened to Niagara Falls, and, taking Mr. Greeley with him, crossed the river, and delivered the paper in his presence to the rebel tricksters.

It contained what the President directed Mr. Greeley to show them in the first instance, yet it was the first notice given them of the President's requirements.

Taking advantage of this concealment by Mr. Greeley, Thompson & Co. pretended to be taken by surprise, and wrote Mr. Greeley a long letter, full of insolent and electioneering denunciation of Mr. Lincoln and the Government. They stated that Mr. Greeley made the first advance to them, which they say "was accepted by us as the evidence of an unexpected but most gratifying change in the policy of the President!" They further say that they had believed "that the conciliatory manifestations on the part of the President of the United States would be met by them (Jeff. Davis & Co.) in a temper of equal magnanimity!" They then denounced the President for changing his mind, and not doing what Mr. Greeley had been led to expect.

On receipt of the latter, in place of setting the President right by telling them that from the beginning he had held throughout but one and the same position, Mr. Greeley left the President to rest under the imputation of bad faith.

Before taking his departure, Mr. Greeley sent word to the rebel "Commissioners" "that he regrets the sad termination of the initiatory steps for peace, in consequence of the change made by the President," etc. No change had in truth been made by the President, and, first and last, there was no room to charge bad faith or change of mind, except the false position in which Mr. Greeley placed the President by disobeying his instructions and failing to exhibit his shrewd and guarded letter.

When Mr. Lincoln came to know what had been done, feeling indignant at the way his confidence had been abused, he wrote to Mr. Greeley for permission to publish the correspondence, omitting only such parts as carried an exaggerated idea of our military and political condition; this request Mr. Greeley refused unless all parts of the letters were published. Upon this conduct of Mr. Greeley Mr. Lincoln commented in these words: "I have concluded that it is better for me to submit for the time to the consequences of the false position in which I consider he (Greeley) has placed me, than to subject the country to the consequences of publishing these discouraging and injurious parts."

After Mr. Lincoln's death these facts and letters all came out. Mr. Lincoln had delivered them in confidence to Mr. Raymond, who, in his "Life of Lincoln," exposes Mr. Greeley with a severity from which I abstain.

But several things are undeniable. First, Mr. Greeley was gulled by a shallow swindle; second, he not only bit at the bait, but pressed the matter upon Lincoln in a manner showing his intention to carp at him unless he yielded to his views; third, Lincoln punctured the fraud at a glance, and yet Greeley did not see it; fourth, Greeley bungled the whole affair at Niagara, or else purposely violated the repeated instructions of the President; fifth, he tamely submitted to the most unblushing effrontry and imposition from the rebels; sixth, he expressly admitted and stated that Lincoln had been fickle or untruthful, when he knew he had not; and, finally, when Lincoln sought to vindicate himself by making the truth public, Greeley stifled the truth by threatening, if it was told, to publish matters having no bearing on the case, but which would deeply wound the public interest.

Who can wonder that Mr. Stanton proposed the arrest of Mr. Greeley for holding unauthorized intercourse with the enemy?

A great deal of the wheat in Yamhill county is being cut with headers.

A party from the Dalles has just visited the summit of Mount Hood.

Business at Canyon City this year is very dull. The mines are gradually failing.

Dalles Fire Department has elected F. Dehm Chief Engineer and N. W. Wallace Assistant.

Indian Superintendent Odeneal was at Canyon City on the 6th, and started on the 7th for Camp Harney.

The old town of Oakland is moving down to the new town of Oakland, situated half a mile distant on the railroad.

On Saturday a Grant and Wilson Club was organized at Eugene City. Hon. J. H. D. Henderson was elected President. Fifty three names were enrolled at the first meeting.

According to the Jacksonville Times the Democratic party has taken Greeley this year because it was forced to, but that paper promises itself that if its party can elect him, in 1876 it will swing off, take a man from its own ranks, and gain a genuine Democratic triumph. It now regards Greeley simply as a catspaw.

Indians belonging at Camp Harney have been raiding on settlers on Crooked river, stealing horses and butchering cattle. A party of soldiers followed them from Camp Harney, and after a jaunt of fifteen days overhauled them near Camp Warner, two hundred miles distant. Eight valuable mares were recovered. The Indians are in irons.

Puget Sounders are still operating, "as they sail, as they sail."

Washington Territory wants a statute to punish bacholors for marrying the schoolma'ams as fast as they arrive.

More than two thousand laborers are now at work on the N. P. R. R., between the Columbia and Puget Sound, one half of whom are Chinamen.

Several persons have taken up claims on the prairies of the upper Humptulip, which empties into Gray's Harbor. The soil is said to be excellent.

The Salt Lake News says that a lady in that city has commenced suit against her Mormon husband for a bill of divorce and $60,000, on the ground that the latter left herself and children and lived for some time with a woman of ill repute.

There is so much smoke on the Sound that the steamers find it necessary to blow a whistle every five minutes, for the prevention of collisions and to ascertain by the echo the proximity of the shore. Sail vessels can't go alone, but are obliged to wait for steamers to tow them out to sea.

At Olympia, on Friday last, a drunken Indian known as "Pete" pointed his gun at several white men and threatened to shoot. A German named Emery fired on him, wounding him in the shoulder. The wound was not dangerous, but it brought the Indian to his senses. He is in jail.

The capital stock of the Puget Sound Telegraph Company has all been subscribed. The line is to be about 45 miles in length, connecting Port Townsend with Seattle, by the way of Port Discovery, Port Gamble, Port Madison, Port Blakely and Freeport. The work was inaugurated at Port Townsend on Tuesday last.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Robert C. Winthrop, of Massachusetts, who has acted with the Democrats of late years, is now for Grant.

At Oswego, New York, F. T. Carrington, O. H. Hastings, T. S. Mott and many other prominent Democrats have declared for Grant.

Col. J. F. Hoy, of Albany, N. Y., a life long Democrat and a noted stump speaker, will take the stump this fall for Grant and Wilson.

Mr. Edward Walton, a leading Democrat of Annapolis, Md., and Chairman of the Democratic City Convention, says he will not support Greeley.

The Petersburg (Va.) Index intimates that when Doolittle says that the negro vote will be split between Grant and Greeley, he is talking nonsense. The Index admits that the negroes are solid for Grant.

A friend of the Christian Register writes a clergyman that he has got so far in politics as to hurrah for Gr—, but doesn't know whether to end it with ant or eeley. The clergyman replies by referring him to Proverbs vs. 6, "Go to the ant, thou sluggard."

To a Louisianian, who said Warmoth stood in the way of Liberal-Republican success in his State, Greeley said, (the New Orleans Picayune reporter.) "Oh, you must not let your local squabbles stand in the way of a national victory." Anything to be President.

As its name imports, the Belletristische Journal, of New York, is a literary paper in the German language. It does not make a specialty of politics, but it says "the election of Greeley would be the heaviest misfortune the nation could bring on itself." It therefore supports Grant.

At a meeting of the German Republican General Committee of Brooklyn, N. Y., a few days ago, Joseph H. Strauss, a prominent German Democrat, made a speech in which he declared himself for Grant and said that hundreds of German Democrats among his acquaintance would do likewise at the polls.

The great Democratic organ, the New York Tribune, was as badly sold about a recent election as the Oregon Herald was. The Tribune exclaimed, "Well done, noble North Carolina! You have pronounced in advance of the verdict of the nation." It is to be hoped that Greeley's organ is satisfied with the "verdict."

The New York Post of a late date asserts that the signatures of the 15,000 German voters of New York, which had been affixed to a Greeley ratification list, and so very dramatically unrolled before the National Democratic Convention at Baltimore, were obtained some years ago under an anti-temperance protest. It was simply cooked over for this new occasion.

The New York Tribune a few days ago gave a list of "life-long Republicans" in Erie county, Penn., who were out for Greeley. We suppose the Oregon Herald copied the list. But the Erie Dispatch prints the names and shows that all the persons save three have always been the rankest kind of Democrats. This is the way that lists of "Greeley Republicans" are made.

Since the New York Demokrat and Abend-Zeitung withdrew from the support of the Baltimore ticket, the entire German press of that city, with a single exception, are all earnestly advocating the election of the Republican candidates. The exception is the New Yorker Journal, which last year defended Tweed and the Tammany ring to the end, for which it suffered greatly in circulation and influence.

GENERAL NOTES AND NEWS.

The Holly water works will be put in operation in Sacramento within eight months.

Metz, the capital of Lorraine, has lost 15,000 of its old residents since its annexation to the German Empire. When the siege of that city was begun by Prince Frederick Charles, its population was 45,000. It is now reduced to 30,000, and still there is no abatement of the departures.

An iron ship building firm at Chester, on the Delaware river—the Clyde of America—have just received a contract from the Pacific Mail Steamship Company for two iron ships, each to be four hundred feet long and five thousand tons burden. These will be among the very largest vessels ever built in this country.

CAN'T SWALLOW GREELEY.—We yesterday overheard a conversation between two parties from the rural districts that illustrates the Democratic capacity for swallowing Greeley. One of the gentlemen works at Davis' flour mills, the other in another part of the country. The following dialogue ensued:

"How's Greeley in your part of the country?"

"Well, I don't know; guess he's all right. How's things out your way?"

"I tell you, our fellers, don't stack on Greeley, and unless the Democrats nominate a candidate, we are going to stay at home and run the mill."

"How many are there down your way of that opinion?"

"Well, there's twelve of us that works round the mill, and lots of others that say they won't go near the polls."

This is all we heard, but that was enough to convince us of the bitterness of the Greeley pill to Democrats in the vicinity of Davis' mills.—Salem Statesman.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—A gentleman who came from the railroad front yesterday, furnishes us with the following facts in relation to the accident which occurred in Pass Creek canyon yesterday morning. Between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock A. M., as a heavy gravel train drawn by the locomotive Clackamas, was moving south at rapid speed, when almost opposite Ward's house, in Pass Creek, a collision occurred with a small hand car. The engineer saw the hand car when nearly three quarters of a mile away, and immediately whistled the signal. At the same instant the five section men, who were on the car with their tools, etc., and moving in the same direction, perceived the train bearing down on them with threatening speed. Just at that place was a gulch some 25 or 30 feet deep, and crossed by trestle work. The men saw in a moment the character and extent of their situation. If they abandoned the hand car, the distance was too great to jump; nor could they expect to make good their escape by stopping the car, and running on foot to a suitable place where the trestle ceased. Every second was precious. Not one instant was to be lost. Using all the energy with which the terrible doom staring them full in the face could inspire them, the car was hurried forward towards a point where the ground could be reached with less hazard. On came the train, thundering in their ears. Again and again sounded that signal whistle. Closer and closer each second came the black and threatening monster of fire and iron. Like men who knew that death was separated from them but by a few rods, they worked the levers. The engineer knowing it would be hopeless to stop the heavy train moving on the down grade, reversed his engine and plied the brakes, to enable the men ahead a little more time to save themselves. At last but two rods separated car and locomotive. It was about six feet to the ground, and, although moving rapidly, to leap was the last and only hope. "Jump for your lives, men!" shouted the conductor. Four leaped off, but the fifth man stood still, to all appearances stupefied with terror. His companions shouted to him with all their strength, but he heeded not. Another instant, and the car was shivered to splinters, the head-light of the locomotive broken to pieces, and the body of the unfortunate man terribly crushed, mutilated, and hurled through the air many feet from the track. The deceased was a Russian by birth, aged 26 years, and named Henry Otto. No reason can be given for his strange conduct, except that either he did not understand the orders of the conductor, or else fright had perfectly paralyzed him, rendering him unable to move. The body was brought to Cresswell and buried. The locomotive was not injured, except her head-light, but scarcely a fragment of the car could be discovered.

A REGATTA.—The matter was agitated a short time ago among some of our citizens, of the holding of a regatta during the present month. But the subject has been silenced by an apparent common disposition to let the whole thing "go by the board." There are plenty of sailing crafts here, and plenty of persons who are possessed of a "sporting" turn of mind, to manage them. Several years ago, a lively interest was manifested in such a class of competitive amusements; but the spirit which once actuated the club (we believe there was such a club) seems to have effectually waned; and the same degree of activity or interest has not been awakened since. We understand that a number of the enterprising young bloods of Vancouver contemplate the organization of a Yacht Club some time during the present week, and in the course of a few weeks to give a grand regatta opposite that place. Six handsome little crafts have already been rigged and placed in sailing trim, in anticipation of the coming regatta. Besides these, there is a neat little vessel owned by James Troup, which will be ready to launch in a few days. This craft is 24 feet long, 7 feet beam, 4 feet hold and about 15 tons burden. She will be schooner-rigged. We are informed that this boat, if rigged in time, will pay a visit to this city next Saturday evening, with the intention of engaging any boat here for a test of sailing qualities. Having been built with express reference to speed, it will be safe to calculate that she will be hard to distance. The owner of the Annie Devlin may be induced to take up the gauntlet thus thrown down. If the challenge should be accepted, some pleasurable excitement may be anticipated from the test of speed.

A DRILL MASTER.—Persons who have had occasion to pass in the vicinity of the Court House in the afternoons have no doubt heard the words of military command—such as "right face," "about face," "right wheel," "double quick," etc.—given in a loud, strong tone of voice by some one. The commands appear to emanate from the subterranean regions of the jail. The impression has gained ground that these orders proceed from the throat of some lunatic confined in one of the cells. In fact, this would be the most natural supposition. We had our minds disabused on that point by inquiry yesterday. The commands, it seems, are given by Mr. William P. O'Reilly, who, it will be remembered, is passing a few of his leisure hours in the peaceful retirement of the jail. There is now a considerable number of prisoners confined in that place, and to afford them exercise and amusement, to while away the tedious hours, the jailer kindly allows a squad of seventeen of these fellows to use a hall running through the length of the building. This is used as a drill room, and O'Reilly is the chosen drill master. Every afternoon he marches out the gang and has them pass through the various military evolutions, generally winding up with a vigorous "double quick." This explodes the preconceived idea about the incoherent ravings of some lunatic who imagines himself, like Napoleon, "at the head of the army."

COUNSEL MULTIPLIED.—The statute provides that no person shall be prosecuted in any court in a criminal action, without having counsel to defend him, either appointed or otherwise. Owing to the number of lawyers in this city, it is not probable that any one will be prosecuted without some legal scion can be found to stand up to maintain the dignity and supremacy of the law, or to defend the accused. We cite two instances, which will suffice to illustrate the point, that occurred yesterday: In the case of the State vs John Rines, charged with assault, the State was represented by Deputy District Attorney R. E. Bybee, Messrs. Lawrence and Work, and the prisoner was defended by Hon J. N. Dolph. This case was tried before Justice Crich, who fined the defendant $5 and costs. Yesterday afternoon the case of the State vs Sheenan, charged with assaulting H. J. Twomey, was tried before Justice Davis. Here the State was represented by R. E. Bybee, Lawrence, Work and Caples, and the defendant by Capt. Thos. Johnson and E. A. Cronin. The result of the trial we are unable to state. Verily, in the multitude of counsel much wisdom abideth.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.—Allusion was made in these columns in the issue of Saturday last in reference to the marked improvements already made in the northwestern portions of the city, both in streets and private residences. Surprising as these alterations in the traveling accommodations and appearance of that part of the city may be, we find an improvement of nearly equal extent in the southern portion. Yesterday we availed ourselves of a stroll in that direction. The improvements were far in advance of what we were led to believe. Hall street is being leveled and opened as rapidly as several gangs of graders with carts can excavate and remove the earth. The sidewalks are also being laid as rapidly as the street is reduced to the established grade. A decided alteration is being made to Jefferson street in the laying of a substantial plank roadway. The excavation along Caruthers street, extending from South Front to Fourth, has been nearly completed and will soon be ready for travel. These are a few of the principal improvements. Many of less magnitude are being prosecuted in different directions.

BITTEN.—Last evening as a tall and richly-dressed Chinaman was passing down First street in that mental state of abstraction so peculiar to the Asiatic minds, a serio-ludicrous incident befell him. As he was passing a store a small dog of the fiste percussion sprang out of the doorway and seized one of his candle shaped legs securely by the trowsers. Before the Celestial could make an effort to shake the animal off, or even act on the defensive, the dog gave a vigorous pull. The animal had fastened its teeth in the silken texture of his pants' leg above the knee, and by a jerk ripped the cloth down to the fellow's ankle, leaving a large part of his limb denuded of covering. So quickly was the whole thing done that the aggrieved party had no time to prevent the act or punish the vicious little creature, which, after the mischief was committed, darted back into the store. The Celestial endeavored to collect damages, but the negotiations failed, and he was at length compelled to bind up his tattered garment and depart. He appeared to be of the more wealthy and refined class, judging from his dress.

GREELEY BADGE.—The political followers of Greeley and Brown resort to various devices to show their adherence to their candidates for the highest positions within the gift of the great American people. The latest dodge is a "Greeley badge," which is to be worn on the left breast of the coat—nearest the heart. This index of political sympathies consists of a small metallic hat—made of a coarse, cheap, white alloy—attached to a piece of ribbon. The hat is about the size of a half dollar, and is fastened to the coat or vest by a pin, in the same manner as a piece of jewelry. It is a very stunning ornament, and is calculated to make many political proselytes to the new Reform faith. By the way, we have been informed that, inasmuch as a Greeley Club is shortly to be organized here, several hundred of these badges have been forwarded from New York, and are soon expected to arrive, for campaign purposes. After November the bell foundries of the city can purchase these badges for five cents a hundred, so great will be the disgust of those who have worn them.

REPAIRING.—The City Council, with a foresight which is commendable, have, and are making appropriations and passing ordinances providing for the time and manner of improving streets, constructing sidewalks and crosswalks, and the opening and extension of new streets. Each year the money drawn from the Treasury for these purposes alone, amount to large sums. Still, while work is progressing in many directions in making these new improvements, much time and money is also expended in keeping up the necessary repairs to the sidewalks and streets. The Street Commissioner is now quite busily engaged in keeping the thoroughfares in a safe condition of repair. A stroll through the back and middle portions of the city, will reveal the fact that the officials whose duty it is to look to such matters, are not neglecting their functions. Prosecuting all the improvements possible and keeping streets and sidewalks in a good state of repair, seems to be the present line of policy pursued.

DISCHARGED AGAIN.—At the last meeting of the County Court, preceding the retirement of the old Commissioners, two persons—R. H. Straub and E. Simmons—were reported to the Court by the Superintendent of the Poor-house as having peremptorily refused to obey orders. The Court took the matter under advisement and finally discharged the two refractory inmates. Subsequently, on the promise of strict obedience to all the rules of the institution, they were readmitted. But it appears that these turbulent spirits could not be content with "well enough," and were again reported yesterday for willful disobedience. This time the Court discharged them at once, and will not be likely to allow them to return to the quiet and orderly precincts of the Poor house on the strength of penitence and promises.

FOURTH STREET.—Work on this street, we are informed, was commenced yesterday at the southern end. A gang of Chinamen have spread their temporary tents, and work has begun. The time expires, according to the contract, on next Thursday, the 15th instant, in which the necessary improvement along Fourth street should be made by the railroad company. An ordinance was introduced in the Council, at its last meeting, granting a further extension of the time, in order to enable the company to fulfill the contract. The ordinance was laid over until the next meeting. As the work has been commenced, the time will undoubtedly be extended. The intention is to prosecute the work with all expedition until the required changes in the grade are made.

PLAZA MATINEES.—At present Portland languishes under a dearth of amusements. Theaters, there are none, nor likely to be until fall; and no other place where an hour or so can be spent in the pursuit of some harmless diversion. The time was, when first class music was furnished gratis twice a week at the public square; but no such pleasure is now afforded this public. Even Vancouver is ahead of this city. Every evening the 21st Infantry Band practices for an hour at the Garrison, at that place, and thus affords the people there an abundance of very fine music, which they are not slow to properly appreciate. Envy is a vice to be avoided; but still Portland would very highly relish such a musical feast.

A. M. E. ZION CHURCH.—The following has been handed us for publication:

FALLING.—The river at this place is rapidly falling. Already the tidal effects are discernable. Several feet more, and the low-water mark will be reached. The Columbia is also going down fast. At Vancouver the river is within three feet of the low-water mark, and that point will soon be reached at the present rate of subsidence.

RACE.—A lively horse race took place near Vancouver, on last Saturday evening, between "Bob-tail Weeden," and "Whisky Smith," two running nags. The distance was one mile, and the purse $1,000. "Whisky Smith" was declared the victor.

ADJOURNED.—The County Court adjourned yesterday until next Saturday at 1 o'clock.

Oregon is an unhealthy climate for frauds. They some way don't flourish worth a cent. Somehow our people can catch a counterfeiter and our press demoralize a scheming adventurer quicker and more effectually than any similar powers in any other communities we have known.

Portland must "stir her stumps," to make use of a questionable phrase, in matrimonial and mortuary affairs. Last week Vancouver boasts the luxury of three marriages, no births, deaths nor accidents. Think of that, ye spinsters, bachelors, matrons, undertakers and doctors! Portland yields the palm.

A convivial party, 65 years old, fell off a wharf the other night, and sputtered lustily for succor, which he finally obtained. He was pulled out, very much collapsed in figure and quite low in temperature. When the persons who made the rescue learned his age they put a bold face upon the matter and claimed to have known it all the time. They were not believed, of course, and have been unmercifully guyed for soiling their clothes and wetting their feet to save a man who will probably die in less than five years anyhow.

Medicinal Poisons on the Wane.

The patriarchs took no mercury, no bismuth, no bromide of potassium, no iodine, no strychnia, no quinine. Happy old gentlemen! they did not even know of the existence of these "specifics," and yet they lived until it seemed that Death had forgotten them. Their medicines were herbs and roots. They have left this fact on record, and the world seems to be now taking note of it and returning to the first principles of medication. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the purest and most efficacious vegetable restorative of the day, is also the most popular. Thousands of persons who only a few years ago believed implicitly in all the poisons which figure in the pharmacopia now pronounce this palatable tonic and alterative an all-sufficient remedy for dyspepsia, nervous debility, constipation, bilious complaints, headache, intermittent fevers, and all the ordinary disturbances of the stomach, the liver, the discharging organs and the brain. The time is not far distant when most of the powerful and venomous drugs now so recklessly administered by practitioners of the "heroic" school, in cases that might easily be controlled by milder treatment, will be utterly discarded by all philosophical physicians. As it is, the thinking public, who are generally ahead of the professionals, have already put the dangerous preparations aside and adopted Hostetter's Bitters in their stead as a safe and excellent household medicine, adapted to almost every ailment except the organic and deadly contagious diseases. For more than twenty years this famous restorative and preventive has been annually strengthening its hold upon the public confidence and it now takes the lead of every advertised medicine manufactured in this country.

Chinese Ingenuity

The Marysville Cal [illegible] gives the following illustration of the ingenuity of the Chinese

A little incident was brought to our notice a day or two since which illustrates the ingenuity of the Chinese in rather a peculiar manner Micky McDaniel [illegible] is familiarly called was [illegible] a number of geese which occasionally [illegible] through and strayed away to the Chinese vegetable garden [illegible] under the pleasant [illegible] would help themselves [illegible] These predatory excursions [illegible] known at the descendants of [illegible] ent preservers have a fondness for [illegible] The plan hit upon by John to prevent them from gratifying their [illegible] ties was ingenious and [illegible] undiscovered until a few days since Several geese belonging to Mr McDaniel had [illegible] and no reason could be assigned for this strange procedure on their part for they were fat and healthy and a goose is supposed to be a long lived fowl But when they were driven up to be picked the mystery was solved Four of the birds were found gagged in a singular manner and one which can hardly be described A ring of fine wire about two inches in circumference was found in the mouth of each held there by being turned over the top of the head and hooked in under the feathers The way it came there is easily understood The Chinaman when making these rings twisted two ends of this wire together turning the end over making quite a strong hook This was hung on a cabbage leaf or other vegetable and left to wait for the coming of the victim In feeding the goose would strike its bill down to pick up a tempting morsel and if one part of the bill went inside this loop its doom was sealed, for the loop would by the force of the blow be turned over the head of the reckless bird and the hook of necessity would fasten under the feathers on the top of the head A few struggles of the prisoned bird would draw the fine wire under the feathers out of sight, and thus the bird would be left unable to close its bill In this condition, with its head held high in the air, it would run around in a circle until exhausted. Even on being driven home and observed in that situation it would require close inspection to detect the cause of this strange proceeding on the part of the tortured bird Mr McDaniels had lost a large number, and only discovered the cause accidentally when engaged in picking them, If any one can produce a more ingenious method of getting rid of geese without killing them outright we should like to be informed of the mode of disposing of them We shall doubt the ingenuity of John no longer, but endorse that famous saying, For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain the heathen Chinee is peculiar

Pennsylvania Politics

The Pittsburg Gazette says that it has direct and positive authority for denying the truth of the rumor that General Hartranft Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania ever wrote a declination on conditions or otherwise and it adds

He means to keep the field, and those who assume the leadership of the party are determined that the fight once commenced shall continue to go on without change of commanders This is the only course to pursue In another paragraph the same paper says 'The temperance candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, S B Chase Esq has written a letter of acceptance which will be given to the public shortly Mr Schell the labor reform candidate for Governor has just returned to Bedford, after a campaign visit eastward It is claimed that he is running very largely into Buckalew s supporters and will take several thousand votes from him

DEMOCRATIC ALARM

The Scranton (Penn) Times a Democratic paper, is manifesting much alarm at the diminishing prospects of the Democracy in the Keystone State It gives its own rose colored view of the situation a little while ago, and then says 'But all hope built on such grounds must now fall, for the stupidity of Democratic leaders of the State and the inertness of the Democratic Executive Committee have allowed these advantages to slip through the fingers of their party The superior generalship of the Radicals has triumphed this year as it has for years past All the Radical journals of the State (with a single exception,) are now in line for Hartranft " In the Democratic way the Times consoles itself with the delusion that money is doing all this, and then goes on The men who manage the Democratic campaign think that all they need do is to take care of Philadelphia and that the rest of the State may go to the dogs That would be all very well if they could accomplish anything extra in Philadelphia, but we doubt even that We want to see more strategy displayed by Democratic leaders in this campaign We want to see more animation in the Democratic camp

Nepotism

[From the Boston Transcript]

Nepotism seems to find an honored place among the isms of reform Senator Conkling says Mr Schurz is not destitute of a brother in law, nor did that brother in law lack a lucrative office until the reformatory Trumbull reformed him out on the ground of unfitness, and insisted upon his own brother in law and nephews being provided for as they have been Trumbull became impressed with Grant s nepotism on his refusal to provide for one more son of the Senator Three brothers-in law a nephew and a son in office did not satisfy Tipton s liberal inclinations but he wanted a consulate for another son and saw the necessity for reform the moment he saw Grant s refusal to give it Mr Greeley also, it would seem has been blest by Providence with that most valuable political adjunct, a brother in law for whom he obtained the most lucrative internal revenue appointment in the country Verily a brother-in law is a handy thing to have in the house As a means of distributing the surplus revenue, hardly inferior to Bridget s cousin who comes every evening and saves us from breakfasting on cold mutton or being offended with the sight of broken victuals To the statesman and reformer indeed what is home without a brother in-law

How A MAN BECAME A MILLIONAIRE —The following facts concerning Mr Alden B Stockwell, president of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, will be read with interest

Mr Stockwell is comparatively a young man—not more than thirty five years of age—and a native of Connecticut He began his business career a poor man and was indebted to good luck as much as good management for his first start in life In 1866 his brother Levi Stockwell—then a paymaster in the United States navy—married one of the daughters of Elias Howe inventor of the sewing machine and a very wealthy manufacturer Alden went to his brother s wedding of course and his irrepressible auburn locks captivated another daughter of Mr Howe and he was soon after married to her In due time as in duty bound the old man died and left his immense property to his children The Howe Sewing Machine Company was reorganized with one of the sons as president Alden D Stockwell vice president and Levi S Stockwell, secretary and treasurer They had and still have a magnificent factory at Bridgeport and a splendid salesroom in New York With this business one would have supposed young Stockwell would have been content But no he used to say that his wife s riches were nothing to him He wanted to be rich himself and by his own efforts He despised the sewing machine business and threw everything connected with it on his brother whenever he could And so about four years ago he went into Wall street one fine morning and began speculating on a small scale He invested 5[illegible] 000 and in November 1871 that investment had swelled by successful management to 11 000 000—that being the amount of Pacific Mail stock which the Stockwell party voted at the last election for officers He is a very quiet operator and was worth millions before anybody in Wall street outside of a few confidential brokers had ever heard of such a man as Stockwell

The building committee of a church called upon a wealthy member of the congregation soliciting a subscription toward a new house of worship The sum he subscribed disappointed them and they told him so at the same time intimating that M [illegible] double the amount S he should [illegible] the wily gentleman he goes to church twice as much as I do

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN PLATFORM

[illegible]

11 A [illegible] the relations of capital and labor [illegible] legislation so as to secure a full protection and ample field for capital and for labor which creates capital the largest opportunities and a just share of the mutual profits of these two great servants of civilization

12 We hold that Congress and the President have only fulfilled an important duty in their measures for the suppression of violent and treasonable organizations in certain lately rebellious regions and for the protection of the ballot and therefore they are entitled to the thanks of the Nation

13 We denounce the repudiation of public debts in any form or disguise as a national crime We witness with pride the reduction of the principal of that debt and of the rates of interest upon the balance and confidently expect that our excellent national currency will be perfected by a speedy resumption to specie payment

14 The Republican party is mindful of its obligations to the loyal women of America for their noble devotion to the cause of freedom Their application for admission to fuller usefulness is received with satisfaction and the honest demands of any class of citizens for additional rights should be treated with respectful consideration

15 We heartily approve the action of Congress in granting amnesty to those engaged in the rebellion and rejoice in the growth of peace and fraternal feeling throughout the land

16 The Republican party proposes to respect all rights [illegible] as carefully as the [illegible]

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who with bogus sworn to certificates, dupe the unwary some of the self styled doctors whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places are tradesmen and became too lazy too work at their trades Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers newspaper carriers intelligence office keepers etc The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles certificates, pretended patients letters, etc Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure
